Stress and Intonation

Low rise in Yes/No questions

Yes/No questions (beginning Are, Have, Do, Can, etc.) typically have a low rising intonation pattern.

Practice sentences like:

Do you LIKE <sub>ˌ</sub>SWIMMING?

Do you ENJOY <sub>ˌ</sub>MUSIC?

Are you INTERESTED in <sub>ˌ</sub>SPORT?

Give substitutions for practice, using sports, interests and activities from the unit: football, playing tennis, watching television, learning English, etc. Pairwork gives practice in giving the answers, too:

S1: Do you ENJOY <sub>ˌ</sub>MUSIC?

S2: YES, I <sup>ˈ</sup>DO/NO, I <sup>ˈ</sup>DON'T.

S1: CAN you <sub>ˌ</sub>SING?

S2: YES, I <sup>ˈ</sup>CAN/NO, I <sup>ˈ</sup>CAN'T.

Contrast the patterns:

WHAT is he <sup>ˈ</sup>INTERESTED in?

and: Is he INTERESTED in <sub>ˌ</sub>LANGUAGES?

I can see what you mean about being intelligible, and I don't especially want to sound like a native speaker, but I don't want to sound Spanish.

I can see what you mean about being intelligible but I've got students who are obsessed with Taylor Swift.

Components

Productive competence

- consonant sounds (variation 'th' & r)
- consonant clusters (avoid deletion)
- vowel sounds (especially length issues)
- sentence stress
- word stress

5. A syllabus for today's classroom

Components

Receptive competence

- dealing with accent variation
- decoding NS speech with connected speech features (e.g. weak forms, coalescence, ... )

Accommodation skills

(= adjusting as a listener / to a listener)

4. From being intelligible to being you

(CEFR Overall Phonological Control A2 – Basic user)

Pronunciation is generally clear enough to be understood, even though conversational partners will need to ask for repetition from time to time. A strong influence from other language(s) he/she speaks on stress, rhythm and intonation may affect intelligibility, requiring collaboration from interlocutors. Nevertheless, pronunciation of familiar words is clear.

4. From being intelligible to being you

CEFR Phonological Control C2 – proficient user

Can employ the full range of phonological features in the target language with a high level of control [...] so that the finer points of his/her message are clear and precise.

Intelligibility and effective conveyance of and enhancement of meaning are not affected in any way by features of accent that may be retained from other language(s).
